LANDSLIDE WIN FOR NIXON IS PREDICTED

By SAM LIPSKI. Jerusalem Post Correspondent WASHINGTON. — The U.S. goes to the polls today with every sign pointing to a sweeping, landslide victory for President Richard Nixon over Senator George McGovern. In their final opinion surveys com-pleted on Sunday, the two leading pollsters — Gallup and Harris — gave Mr. Nixon a huge lead which, if translated into votes, would mean a 20-million-vote margin and victory in every state of the union union.

One thousand immigrants have arrived in the first few days of the month, and if the pace continues as expected a total of 5,000 will arrive before the end of the month, making it a record month since the Six Day War.

The forecast was made yesterday by Uzi Narkiss, Director-General of the Jewish Agency Immigration Department, at a meeting of the Agency Executive in Jerusalem.

In October 4,645 immigrants ar-rived, about 450 more than had been forecast. They included 916 from Georgia and 267 from Bukhara. In September, Mr. Narkias said, 93 Soviet academicians arrive

THE ISRAEL NATIONAL OPERA PRESENTS VERDI'S "OTELLO" AN OUTSTANDING AND IMPRESSIVE PERFORMANCE

By YABIV EZRAHI

One of the best achievements of the Israel National Opera the Première Performance of Verdi's "Otello" presented on the occasion of the Opera's 25th year of activities. Mrs. Edis-de-Philippe, directress of the Opera, and the producer of the performance was successful in bringing together an excellent cast of singers both from abroad and from Israel. "Otello" is regarded as one of the best works of Verdi which requires such excellent talents as those who took part in this performance. And they are able to attract young listoners listeners.

Under the temperamental and even baton of Maestro Georg Singer and in view of the tasteful settings — the soloists presented a superior and impressive performance well-aided by the orchestra which has been augmented by eight new immigrant musicians.

PALERMO, Sicily (AP). - Twentysix children in Palermo alone have been admitted to hospitals for treatment of eye injuries caused by toy guns given as gifts in Sicily's traditional November 2 Day of the Dead observance.

Hospital authorities said many of the children would lose the sight of an eye.

Dr. Gluseppe Colombo, head of the eye department of Palermo's Civic Hospital, appealed to authoritles to ban the sale of the toy guns which fire rubber or plastic builets. Although they are considered dangerous, there is no law against their sale.

Israel Bond campaign in U.S.

The Israel Bond campaign in the United States is in full swing with the annual testimonial dinners being held in communities throughout the country. One of these dinners will be held in Allentown, Pennsylvania, on Sunday, November 17, to hon-our Mr. Zenon C. Hansen, Chairman of the Board of Mack Trucks Inc., who have purchased $1m. in Israel Bonds. (Mack Trucks, whose headquarters are in Allentown, are now being assembled in Israel by Elkon Brothers who have been the sole distributors here for the Mack

Soviet talks

NEW YORK (Reuter). - James Needham, chairman of the New York Stock Exchange, Sunday night announced he will hold five days of talks with banking officlais in the Soviet Union beginning at the end of this week,

Mr. Needham, a former securities and exchange commissloner, who became head of the world's largest stock exchange on August 25, left the U.S. for London yesterday. He will go on to the Soviet Ualon where he will be the guest of the Bank for Foreign Trade.

The purpose of the trip - the first official visit to Moscow by the head of the New York exchange - was "to explore how the securities industry might play a major role in the development. of trade and commerce between the U.S. and the Soviet Union," he said.

Plans for the Soviet trip have been under preparation for three weeks. But Mr. Needham received State Department clear-ance only on Sunday. In addition to his talks, he plans to tour Soviet industrial plants and will study the Russian approach for selling consumer goods. He also plans to outline the services and resources of Wall Street firms and listed companies,

"The exchange could play an important role in the further de-velopment of cooperation between the Soviet and the American business communities," Mr. Needham said. NINE PERSONS were killed and

Investments tapering off slightly

By AARON SITTNER Jerusalem Post Reporter

The pace of new business outlays, as measured by the Government Investment Authority, appears to be slowing down a bit.

In a report to the weekly meeting of the Ministerial Economic Cemmittee, the Authority said that in the first 10 months of this year it had approved investments totaling IL2,352m., compared with IL2,416m. during the same period last year.

The ministers yesterday decided to appoint an eight-man committee to look late ways of simplifying in-vestment in Israel industry. The committee will include representatives of the Ministry of Commerce and Industry, the investment Au-thority, the Ministry of Tourism, the Treasury, and the Industrial Development Bank.

Minister of Finance Pinhas Sapir told his fellow ministers on the Economic Committee that the means of payment had risen by three tenths of a per cent in October as against seven tenths of a per cont in October 1971.

October's exports, he said, came to $103m., which was $25.2m. preater than those of October 1971. Citrus shipments, however, slackened, from $3.6m. in October 1971, to $3.2m. ast month.

VOL. XLII, No. 13632 •

HUNDREDS of volunteers will knock today on the doors of Israeli citizens, as they come once more to collect contributions to the Israel Cancer Association. This is the eleventh year of the campaign; the drive has been able during this period to collect a total of IL7.5m. This year the Association is setting its target at the figure of II.1.6m., a brave aim indeed.

The success of the drive proves that Israelis, not generally geared to voluntary donations because of the high tax levels, nevertheless do find money for causes in which they believe.

When the Israel Cancer Association began its activities 20 years ago, its main aim was to educate the population into taking a more rational view of mankind's most dreaded scourge. At that time the very word "cancer" was so terrifying that people seldom dared to utter it, or to discuss prospects honestly with the afflicted.

The Israel Cancer Association The Israel Cancer Association set out to turn light on to this dark subject. In the first place, it had to make people realize that certain types of cancers can now be controlled for dec-ades, if caught early enough, and that people afflicted with mediement tumours could still enmalignant tumours could still enjov many fruitful and productive years. The terror had to be met head on. This meant undergoing regular inspections, so as to con-trol possible cancer by correct action taken in time — time is of the essence in the control.

The Association is certainly entitled to congratulate itself on the success of this effort to explain cancer to the public: today the almost superstitious attitude to the disease is less in evidence. There is also hope that many tumours will be vanquished by the end of the present decade. Science is advancing on a broad front: exciting discoveries, both clinical and basic, are reported almost every week in scientific #### journals. There are novel ideas about how cancers develop, and how immune responses are set up; within the foreseeable future. we can visualize that many of the "wild" cancer cells will be tamed and brought into the corral of practical treatment.

It is a great pity that during this dramatic phase of medical research, funds that used to flow freely to Israel have dried up. Some of these were American counterpart funds that had ac-cumulated in the 'fifties, some were other U.S. research funds that have dropped as a result of the American Government's of the American Government's tighter policy in regard to uni-versities. As a result, the de-mand for local money for re-search increased, and it is for-tunate that the Association managed to allocate IL373,000 last year for 22 research pro-jects. It also paid for further training for young investigators. One problem that has become acute in recent years is the inability of the overcrowded hos-pitals to provide bed space for patients who have undergone successful surgery or other treat-ment. Paradoxically, the hospitals are doing so well keeping patients alive and comparatively fit that their wards are under atmost intolerable pressure. The Association is building a con-valescent home which should help to solve this problem.

Finally, also because of the success in holding tumours at bay, there has been an intensi-fication of the human difficulties involved. The patient may be well enough to go back to society, but it is not easy for him or her to adjust economi-cally, socially and mentally to a new way of life, in which he or she has to live forever with a problem. Here the social welfare services of the Association make a great contribution to easing the burden. The knocking on the door should thus become a very wel-come tradition in Israeli life.

Commenting on King Hussein's principle to solutions by war and proposals, Ha'aretz (non- bloodshed. The difference in their party) writes: "While Israel may attitude is not the result of lack not be able to accept Hussein's of understanding or lack of flexconditions, the important thing is ibility towards solutions, it lies in his desire for peace. The paper then adds: "The view is gradually tak-ing hold that the West German authorities were party to the hijack-ing because of their desire to be rid of the Arab murderers." Hamodia (Agudat Yisrael) says that no surprises are in the offing in the forthcoming U.S. presidential elections and Nixon's victory is a foregone conclusion. Israel has nothing to worry about, the paper feels, since Nixon will live up to his promises. Moreover, "Rissinger's failure to impose a peace solution on Vietnam will deter Nixon from trying to do the same in the MidWOOING PEACE

IF war is a fierce maiden, peace is a coy one. but well worth the wooing she exacts. The long-awaited cease-fire still seems just beyond grasp. But when it comes, it is bound to mark the end and beginning of an era, and bring joy to many, and mixed blessings to a few. The joy is clear, not only to the PW's and their families, and to families on both sides of the lines, but to countless people who have waited for years for some signs of the ending of this brutal never-ending conflict. The mixed blessings are also there. I talked with a young writer who has given everything to the McGovern campaign. "If peace comes," he said, "I have to be happy about it. But why does it come now, and not four years ago, or after the election? I have done nothing else arter the election? I have done hotming class since March except work for McGovern, and I thought we were beginning to turn the corner, and now it all collapses." He isn't alone in his rage over the timing of the drive for a cease-

* * * BUT Nixon and Kissinger couldn't have staged the drive by themselves. Hanoi had to collaborate. The American settlement terms have been pretty clearly known, and little about them has changed in the last months. Hanol's peace strategy was also pretty clear, and there was little to do except wait for Hanoi to decide that Nixon wasn't about to be thrown on the ash heap of history by the American people. When Hanoi finally convinced itself that Nixon was bound to win the election, a new climate emerged for the bargaining, and Nixon and Kissinger were swift to follow it up. Hanoi had to change its mind on several scores. It had said that there could be no ceasefire without a political settlement first. It had said that President Thieu would have to go. Both turned out to be hard-line rhetoric, and the American negotiators must have known it all the time.

Yet Thieu's role, not only as person but as symbol, gathers into a single knot all the difficulties that still remain on the hard road to an actual peace. I don't think Hanoi has ever underrated Thieu's ability, his tenacity, and his capacity for manoeuvre - but many Americans have,

Thien's beliefs

Neither he nor his ruling group wants to give up the power they have struggled to win and to hold on to. But since their lives have made them convinced anti-Communists, they put little faith in the tripartite interim regime for Saigon that Kissinger and Le Duc Tho have agreed to. Thieu has studied what happened in Eastern Enrope in the 1940s, and he knows something about Asian Communism. He be-lieves that, whether by force or guile or both, the Communists will manage to convert the tripartite regime into a voltary one, outwardly seutral, inwardly and actually Communist. If he has to travel that tripertite road — and the chances are strong that he will have to — he will be dragged kicking and struggling.

If he is a realist, he will know-that historically it was in the cards. The key is American power. Without American power he would have heen no one. The night before the military junta chose him as president (so goes the story), he told his wife he had no chance, and he resigned himself to defeat. It was the junta that chose him over Gen. Ky, but the Amer-icans came to rely on him, helped build him up, sustained him by their military power. The Americans used him to build a viable Saigon government. But they have had enough of the war, and - within the frame of American guarantees - Thieu and his people will have to be largely on their own. This is what happens to a client state, when it has to depend on its patron state. America has the "or else," the power to withdraw mili-tary support from the Saigon government, and Thieu has to recognize the stark reality of that "or else." He may nurse a grievance against Nixon, and feel that after the long, arduous road they travelled together. Nixon finally con-ceded too much to Hanoi, and at the wrong time. But in the end he must recognize the reality principle. * * * Thien does have one weapon still - Nixon's fear of a backlash inside the U.S. if the notion spreads that there has been a betrayal of the South Vietnamese regime. Nixon and Kissinger have all along feared a passionate "stab-in-the-back" myth might tear the fabric of the civil society inside America. This is one reason why they have refused for years to settle with Hanoi on what would have been too clearly Hanoi's terms. If Nixon is re-elected today, which is strongly probable, he will come on as a triumphant leader whose political strategy has been vindicated. He will thus be stronger in negotiating to turn a cease-fire into a real peace, and stronger also in meeting the potch-tial backlash.

BY MAX

Selective Marxists With Prejudice by Alex Berlyne

"LET'S be after talking a little treason," as my old LR.A. friend John Ignatus McCabe used to say. It's been a grand week for it. We opened with the trial of four members of Siah, charged with distributing inciting leaflets in Bethlehem. A few days later one Peter Fulman, a recent immigrant, drew a 15-year sentence for espionage on behalf of the Lebanese. He was up to his tricks within a year of his arrival in Israel, which must be some sort of a record. The week's grand finale was the passing, pre-sumably into some sort of Blackshirt Valhalla, of that grand old man of letters, Ezra Pound.

The Siah quartet refused to recognize authority of the court, the instrument of "an occupying power," to try them and treated the bench to a series of quotations from Marx instead of a prepared defence. If they'd been using some of Groucho's old gags they might at least have gained the court's sym-pathy, but they chose to recite some of Karl's slogans, which some people might interpret as subjecting the judges to cruel and unusual punishment. The sort of Marxism modern leftists embrace is, of course, very selective, resembling in some ways the laundered version of Yoga practised by some of our more exotic intellectuals.

One can hardly imagine a Siah member quoting Marx's wish for the strengthening of British imperial power, which he saw as a brake on Czarist ex-event The corpse in Highgate Cametery is still busily sowing confusion. I recently saw a poster, put out by some left-wing Zionist group in the U.S. as part of the "Let My People Go" campaign. Under a portrait of the old conspirator appears the slogan, "If this Jew lived in the U.S.S.R. he would be a second-class" citizen." Well young people today don't seem to do their homework the way they used to. I'm sure this German Protestant would get an exit visa on the spot and the Russians would probably

pay him ransom money. SHORT STEP

From sedition to treason is quite a short step. Ezra Pound took it with ease, assuring his place in that Hall of Infamy which includes his compatriots Benedict Arnold and William Joyce, "Lord Haw-Haw." Anyone who listened, as I did, to Joyce's broadcasts during World War II will have a very clear idea of the nature of this of-fence. That jeering voice describing the destruction wrought by the Luftwaffe on the city in which his own parents and brother lived and promising more of the same — was the very incarnation of treason. Those offenders who've been brought to justice here since 1948 have, for some reason still unclear to me, been tion his expressions of German national feeling. charged with espionage rather than treason, even though owing allegiance to the State, and then the courts have disap-pointed me further by dispens-ing with the fine old tradition of the firing-squad, the blind-fold and the last eigentit fold and the last cigarette - the stuff that "New Yorker" cartoons are made of. Most of these rogues have served about eight years apiece, after de-ducting time for good be-haviour, and, interestingly enough, have been sufficiently thick-skinned to remain here after their release. We just don't have the right attitude to these things.

FAIR PLAY

Since the 18th century a code of political fair play has been generally accepted and people are free to advocate peaceful change and to censure the government, apart from those living under totalitarian regimes. However, there are always those whose enthusiasm leads them to overstep the mark. These seem to be par-ticularly thick on the ground in campuses everywhere. I'm not referring to that familiar Israel phenomenon, the del-egation of professors or writ-ers, though I've always failed to understand why these worthies imagine that their particular specialities have revealed political solutions which lesser mortals are incapable of grasping. Nor do I mean the compulsive demonstration-at-tenders. I have a few hard cases in mind who've expounded their ideas to me personally. Take, for instance, the Lecturer in Sociology I spent an evening
